

Airror Studio's Aireo FlightSimulator brings a brand-new global aviation experience to Nintendo Switch.

Buckle up, fasten your seatbelt, and prepare for a breathtaking journey through some of the world's most magnificent landscapes.

German game developer Airror Studio announced today that the Aireo FlightSimulator will be released on Nintendo Switch on Sep. 21, 2023. From the majestic peaks of the Alps to the shimmering beaches of the Caribbean, every place on earth is realistically represented using geospatial data and satellite imagery retrieved from the internet.

Aireo FlightSimulator introduces an entirely new physics system, providing a realistic flight experience. With a selection of 7 detailed aircrafts, ranging from nimble small planes to massive airliners and agile fighter jets, players will have the opportunity to take control of a wide array of airplanes. The adventure either starts on one of the 10,000 real airports or airborne from any place in the world.

"After our debut title WorldWide FlightSimulator we wanted to create an even more thrilling experience for the Switch. We received great feedback from players all over the world that motivated us to work on a new flight simulator."

Now Airror Studio is introducing its brand-new title Aireo FlightSimulator, which will be released in the Americas, Europe and Australia on September 21st. The game will be available on the Nintendo eShop for €24.99 or $24.99.
